

RAIL UNIONS ACCEPT DECISION OF PRESIDENT

Lansing, Rebuked by Wilson, Quits Cabinet

PRESIDENT CLAIMS SECRETARY TOOK TOO MUCH LIBERTY

CALLING OF MEETINGS IS BASIS OF DISAGREE-MENT BETWEEN CHIEFS.

OF LONG STANDING

Relations Strained Since before
United States Entered War.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Feb. 14.—The president has rebuked Secretary Lansing for calling cabinet meetings during his illness. Secretary Lansing has resigned.

The president has accepted the resignation "with appreciation" and Mr. Lansing becomes the second secretary of state to leave the administration over a disagreement
with his chief.

Although the correspondence between Mr. Lansing and the president
during the calling of the cabinet
meetings, the incident which leads directly to the secretary's resignation,
persons "on the inside" of the administration who know what has been going on say that it was only
an incident and that the real reasons
for the break go back over a period
of many months and come from fundamental differences of opinion
in policy.

Disagreed Before War
The disagreements between the president and the head of the state department even antedated the entry
of the United States into the war.
The relations between the two men
almost reached the breaking point
early in 1917 when Mr. Lansing suggested his celebrated statement saying the United States was daily being brought nearer and nearer the war.
By some it was taken to forecast the entry of the United States.

The president made every effort to overturn the statement after it had been given out at the state department but was unsuccessful.

When Mr. Lansing went as a member of the American peace delegation to Paris, Mr. Lansing's disagreements with other members of the American mission he was not in accord with the president's idea of making the treaty of peace and the covenant of the league of nations
one and the same inseparable document. It was Mr. Lansing's policy to have such a plan as to have the ratification of a peace treaty and in this he was supported by Henry White and E. M. House.

It may be said with a great degree
of authority that while the president and Mr. Lansing had differences in policy, the differences of more than minor nature developed and this is confirmed by the references to the president makes it in one of his letters.

When the president went back to Paris last March and the president and Mr. Lansing were in the United States Mr. Lansing and the others of the American mission had agreed tentatively to have the peace treaty and the league of nations covenant separated, the situation came near a breaking point
and probably would have been a matter of remark that he saw him very little. The incident which came nearer causing a break than any other was the recent testimony of William C. Bullitt, one of the experts attached to the American peace mission, that the relations between the president and the secretary of state were strained.

Break Was Near
Mr. Lansing, obviously in a difficult position, did not repudiate Bullitt's statements, although it was momentarily expected in Washington
that he either would repudiate them
or resign his office. His speaking tour in the west. To say that he was upset by Bullitt's story and his quitation of the secretary of state in the president's mind expected to see the secretary's resignation asked for Washington. These same officials believe now that the breakdown
which sent the president and the secretary of state apart was the only thing which prevented it.

Mr. Lansing never saw the president again and did not see business
with the chief executive in writing.
The relations between the men remained much strained and then Mr.
Lansing's action in calling the cabinet together brought them to the breaking point.

Cabinet Meeting Tense
Those who were present at the first cabinet meeting describe a rather tense and dramatic scene. Congress was full of rumors that the president was so disordered as to be constitutionally unable to discharge
the functions of his office. There

His First "Leap Year" Valentine

PASTORAL LETTER IS ISSUED BY CATHOLIC BISHOPS FOR FEB. 22

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Feb. 14.—For the first time in 35 years the American Roman Catholic archbishops and bishops are issuing a pastoral letter to their clergy and the laity. The letter will be read in every Catholic church in the United States Sunday February 22. It was prepared by Cardinals Gibbons and O'Connell and Bishop J. Sheehan of the Catholic University.

Cardinal Gibbons is the sole survivor of the 78 bishops who signed the joint pastoral letter issued after the first plenary council in Baltimore held in 1884.

The pastoral letter insists that world reconstruction shall proceed
on sound principles and not along lines of expediency. It emphasizes the need of justice and charity and their application to the practical solution of the pressing problems
which confront all civilized nations.
The letter will discuss problems of marriage and divorce, industrial relations, national and international affairs. It lays stress on education as a means of reconstruction and exhibits the power of Christianity as an absolute necessity for human welfare.

GRONNA SAYS BARNES USES PROPAGANDA

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, Feb. 14.—Senator
Gronna, Republican, North Dakota,
charged in an address today in the senate that Julius Barnes, president of the United States Grain corporation, was conducting a propaganda
campaign "against the senator's bill proposing abolishment of the corporation."

Charging that Mr. Barnes had corroborously represented that the bill would terminate the government's wheat price guarantee and had overestimated the country's wheat supply by 60,000,000 bushels, Senator
Gronna said:

"I don't see how it is possible for Mr. Barnes in his position to give proper attention to the interests of the producer and consumer and at the same time be the manager for the presidential campaign of one of his distinguished associates, the greatest internationalist in the United States."

WILSON TO TAKE UP REINS AGAIN SAY LONDON EDITORS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, Feb. 14.—This afternoon
London papers print the news of Secretary Lansing's resignation under a variety of prominent captions
such as "United States political bombshell," "Washington sensation,"
and "Great United States news."
The Pall Mall Gazette says:
"President Wilson's return to political activity has been announced by a sensational stroke. During his illness, the newspaper adds, all kinds of reports were current as to where the president would be seen in the conduct of the American administration. 'The curtain now has been thrust aside,' the article continues, 'and we have seen lively speculation of the president not only using his prerogative, but employing it to discharge his chief legal adviser.'"
What is, in fact, the president's
self-assertion "emerges all the
stronger for his enforced rest and he
is evidently going to take up the
reins of government again in a spirit
that will not parley with opposition."

The Westminster Gazette says:
"The dismissal of Secretary Lansing by the president is a dramatic illustration of the peculiar power assigned to the head of the government by the American constitution.
What is, in fact, the president's
self-assertion 'emerges all the
stronger for his enforced rest and he
is evidently going to take up the
reins of government again in a spirit
that will not parley with opposition.'"

districts populated by fully as many Russians as Esthonia, not being ready to shed the blood of the workers and peasants for the sake of some strips of country which, anyway, are not definitely lost. Es-

government—fought for 51 years—

Woman Suffrage association will, to Rising from its ashes will be the League of American Voters, which tomorrow takes up the task of searing when how to use the vote the suffrage association has virtually won.

Victory is celebrated tonight al-

constitutional amendment before it will become a law. The suffragists are confident that their ratifications will be forthcoming within a nent officers and to report of the national council, said to represent 750,000 farmers in 14 states, today

voted resolutions supporting the

The farmers' organization urges a two year extension of government control over the railroads and demands that the government retain all ships that can be used by the United States.

Another resolution declares the farmers are opposed to efforts to retain the government ownership of American citizens by peace time
sedition laws.

A capital property tax to pay off
the debt of the United States was endorsed.

WAUKESHA MAN HERE BOOSTING S. S. MEET

E. A. Finn, Waukesha, secretary of the Rock County Sunday School
union, is here today completing arrangements for the purpose of giving instruction to Sunday
school teachers a total of
about 100 to be in session in this city
the first week in March.

At this time two state workers,
Miss Mable Bailey and J. L. Rogers, will be here to give instructions and arrangements are being made to secure others to teach the Sunday
school teachers a total of
about 100 to be in session in this city
the first week in March.

Programs for the week
are being planned, with the local ministers cooperating. These and registration will be seen at once. As yet, it has not been decided whether to hold the meetings all at one church or at the various churches.

At least 15 cities of the state are planning on holding the schools. Mr.
Finn said that Evansville, Ind., and Minn. would also hold method
schools for their Sunday school teachers.

Three years ago a similar school
was held in this city.

BOLIVIA LAYS CLAIM TO PORT ON PACIFIC

Buenos Aires, Friday, Feb. 13.— Bolivia has formally laid claim to the Pacific port of Arica, which according to a dispatch from La Paz which says the Bolivian chamber of deputies has passed a resolution declaring that the port of Arica is a part of Bolivia
and how come to incorporate in the dominion of the republic a port in Arica, over which the bordering nations of Chile and Peru will have no defined rights.

This declaration is interpreted by La Epoca, organ of the Argentine government, as giving the Arica
problem an "appearance of rigorous actuality." The newspaper says it is obvious the Bolivian attitude adds a new conflict.

the indignation among the labor interests.

SEVEN DOWNTOWN OFFICES LOOTED; $130 CASH TAKEN

EARLY MORNING SERIES OF ROBBERIES STAR-
TLES ENTIRE CITY.

2 SUSPECTS HELD

Few Clues for Police to Follow
—Work Believed to Have Been That of Amateurs.

Seven business offices in the downtown district, all located within a block of each other, were burglarized early today, thieves escaping
with cash amounting to less than $130, obtained from safes in the offices of the Lowell Realty company
and O. S. Morse & Son. Attempts to enter two more offices were futile.

Two young men who have been living here for several months are held as suspects. They were being put through the "third degree" by Chief Morrissey at the police station
this afternoon.

Entrance to the offices was gained by means of a "jimmie" and a steel
rod. The offices ranged westward from the corner of Third and Carle block, over Reber's store;
Finley & Haver, James I. Sheridan,
Dooley & Lowell Realty company,
and O. S. Morse & Son, all in the Tallman block, corner of South River
and Milwaukee streets; and Jeffries Mount, Oestrich, Avery & Wood in the block over Burns store.

Efforts were made to enter the offices of the Modern Homes corporation and John E. Kennick, but these were not successful. The offices were securely locked when the thieves attempted to enter. Efforts to open safes in other offices were confined to tampering with locking mechanism being made at
"cracking."

Thieves Work Fast
Papers in desks in one office looted
and a safe in another was opened.
The thieves, who evidently worked fast,
wasting little time in making a thorough search.

First known by the police of the robberies was at 3 o'clock this morning when Officer Patrick Slein
found the door of the Lowell office
open. An investigation was begun immediately, continuing throughout the day under the direction of Chief Morrissey, resulting in the arrest of the two suspects.

Although the robbers left practically no clues upon which to work, the chief believes he will have solved the mystery by tomorrow.

It was apparent that the Morse office was probably the first one looted.
A strip along the door jamb was broken loose, giving access to the automatic lock, which was forced. The combination lock on the safe just inside the door was opened, and $130
in cash was secured, together with checks amounting to $100, and non-negotiable government stamps.

In the Lowell office the lock on the safe was not being operated properly for several weeks, so entrance to it was gained with ease. The cash on hand was $100, and $100 in cash was secured, together with $50 worth of stamps. Envelopes containing $100 in cash, memberships in the building and loan societies, and other valuables were also taken.

The door of the Morse office was not opened. The door of the Morse office was not opened. The door of the Morse office was not opened. The door of the Morse office was not opened.

An unlocked safe in the Lovejoy
office containing only records, was looted, but no apparent attempt was made to open another safe, which made up the balance of the loot. A black mark on the wall of the hall
showed where an attempt was made to enter the safe.

Modern Homes corporation office
was not entered, although the transom,
which was partly open.

Access to the three real estate offices in the block was gained by the use of a "jimmie" on one door
it being necessary to whistle a hole to operate it. Although papers and drawers in the armory, which was looted, nothing was missed today.

Belief that at least two men performed the jobs was strengthened
when an investigation was made of the office of J. L. Rogers, which was looted, and it was found that the main office had been forced open by scratching over the door. The glass opening on the stairway probably to make easier the work of the look-out who was probably posted near here by the other comrades.

Lansing Lights

Secretary of State Lansing Resigned.

There will be no more resignations from the cabinet as a result of the Lansing incident, it was said at the White House.

Frank L. Polk, under secretary of state, became secretary ad interim.
Wilson says he will be obliged if he is given "opportunity" to select someone whose mind would more willingly go along with mine.

John W. Davis and Under Secretary Polk are being discussed as successors to Lansing.

Cabinet meetings will be resumed
"very soon," Wilson will preside.

Secretary Lane declared he considered himself "just as much responsible" as Lansing for the calling
of the cabinet meetings.

TESTIMONY THROWN OUT BY JUDGE IN NEWBERRY TRIAL

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Grand Rapids, Mich., Feb. 14.—
Judge Sessions threw out the testimony given yesterday by Seymour C.
Cornell, Grand Rapids, when the Newberry election conspiracy trial started today. Cornell acknowledged received money from George Welsh,
a Grand Rapids defendant, but insisted that he was for work in the interest of Welsh's race for the legislature or for the republican ticket and that Newberry was not mentioned.

Claire R. Higbee, clerk of the grand jury, made his third appearance on the stand. He was asked to relate what R. C. Colwell, a prosecutor, told him. Colwell, who is a defendant in the case, told the grand jurors of their part in the Newberry campaign. Watt is a defendant and appeared before the grand jury.

Higbee read from his notes that
Watt said Colwell and the other $100 and had expenses of about $250.
Mayor Pelt of Belding was given $50 by them for circulating petitions and literature and other men were paid up to $50. Higbee, who collected the money, said that he and Colwell kept the balance of their expense fund.

EMPEROR PLOTTED TO REGAIN THRONE

Budapest, Feb. 14.—Circumstantial details have been revealed of a plot by the emperor Charles to return to Hungary under a false
passport and reestablish himself
on the throne.

Documentary evidence indicates
that it has been planned for the ex-
emperor to cross the Austrian frontier under the name of Kaspar Kovacs,
accompanied by three other persons whose identity has not been definitely established. He was to be received by a committee of the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way
employees, which has been accepted by the union officials at least for the present.

It was announced by the
union men that the brotherhood of railway trainmen had
joined in the decision submitted to the president, but that the
Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way
employees had not become a party to
it. The maintenance of way employees have been ordered to strike Tuesday.

DUTCH NOT AVERSE TO POLITE REQUEST

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
The Hague, Friday, Feb. 13.—Holland probably would not be unwilling to accede to a polite request
from the emperor to put former Emperor William farther from the German frontier than he is at present.
It has been learned here, but would probably resent any dictation as to sending him to a Dutch island or any particular place.

tween J. M. O'Grady, representing Great Britain, and M. Livinoff, on ant to the former Greek general staff

was being played over the Royal

down on a golf ball driven by Col.

TELEGRAMS SENT TO LO- CALS TO 'STEADY MEN' FOR THE TIME.

RAISE REFUSED

Negotiations Secret but Indicate Settlement at Least for Present.

(Bulletin)
(By Associated Press)

Washington, Feb. 14.—The railroad employees' representatives have agreed to accept the recommendation of President Wilson to hold their wage demands in abeyance
temporarily, it was announced today.

President Wilson informed
the men of his intention to appoint a commission of wage experts to go thoroughly into their claims. The union leaders agreed to call a convention
of their general committe-
men to be held in Washington
February 23.

The union leaders' reply to the president's proposal to handle the controversy in this manner did not end the question finally. They made it clear that they desired word
from officials who are in closer touch with their membership
than they.

Washington, Feb. 14.—The
reply of the railroad brother-hoods to President Wilson's decision in the wage controversy was presented to the president today. Immediately afterwards the union officials
sent telegrams to their locals
over the country which B. M.
Jewell, president of the railway department of the American Federation of Labor, said
would serve to "steady our men" until they receive the full correspondence covering
the negotiations.

Mr. Jewell would not say just what had been the result of the negotiations but it seemed certain that the president had refused to meet the demands of the two million workers for a general wage increase and that his decision
had been accepted by the union officials at least for the
present.

It was announced by the
union men that the brother-
hood of railway trainmen had
joined in the decision submit-
ted to the president, but that the
Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way
employees had not become a party to
it. The maintenance of way employees have been ordered to strike Tuesday.

Strike Still Looms

Detroit, Feb. 14.—President Wilson's refusal yesterday to representatives of the various railroad unions contained nothing that would warrant withdrawal of the strike
order issued to members of the United Brotherhood of Maintenance

CAUCASIA: TRADITIONAL HOME OF THE WHITE RACE.

"With various anti-bolshevik governments seeking a resting place and capital at one end of the range and fabulous hoards of Baku at the other, inspiring covetous imperialistic interest, the long line of mountains which separates Europe from Asia gives promise of once more attaining the headline position it so often has held throughout the ages," says a bulletin from the National Geographic society.

"Made up of four hundred miles of majestic peaks, in three ridges, the Caucasus stretches from northwest to southeast like a petrified wave whose northeastern face mounts to the snowy crest, but whose southwestern front, facing toward Turkey seems dashed into countless precipices by the titanic forces of nature.

"Once the Caucasus was a fabled land of rivers of gold and rich vineyards, of orchards bent low with the weight of luscious fruit and of storied hills rich in all the known minerals of the age.

"The Caucasus is the most interesting rabbit warren of humanity on the globe. For uncounted ages, various peoples sifted through the secluded valleys leaving a fraction of their number in some remote spot so that at one time El Azizi said that there were 300 tribes and dialects in the region 550 miles long and 100 miles broad, which he called the 'Mountain of Languages.' "Strabo spoke of 70 races of men, some of them armed with poisoned arrows and wearing skin shoes with spiked soles. Troglydites there were and are. The Caucasus is a sort of three ring group of natural marvels compressed between Europe and Asia, between the Black Sea and the Caspian.

"On the European slope, the Caucasus is flanked by the Cossacks of the Don, the Kuban and the Terek, along whose banks the famous Tolstoy served as a young soldier.

"On the Asiatic side, there are the new republics of Georgia, Azerbaijan and Armenia, partly carved from Russian, partly from Turkish lands.

"Within the Caucasus itself there are still many strange tribes. Most handsome of all are the Mingrelians and their neighbors the Imereians. The Gurlans, the Kabards, the Ossetians, Lezgians, Tchetchens and Tatars—all are huddled in a region so lacking in roads or modern communications that each tribe is as isolated as though it possessed a continent of its own.

"The people who have left the deepest impress on the Caucasus, although most of them emigrated to Turkey in 1854, are the Tcherkess or Circassians. The loveliness of their women forms the lure of countless harem tales and the darling of the men furnishes the contrast of the houri-like charm of the Circassian maidens who made harems popular, not only along the beautiful Bosphorus, but in romantic literature as well.

"The Tcherkess gave to the Caucasus and the fancy dress ball the Tcherkeska, the familiar skirted costume of the warlike Cossack and the litho Georgian graces. It is the original opera bouffe uniform, with a narrow waist and flaring skirts above soft boots without heels. This costume is also distinguished by eighteen cartridge cases ranged across the chest, which is made imposing not only by this perambulant ammunition duster but also by the fact that the upper portion of the outer garment is left unfastened so that the dark shirt below shows wider and wider toward the top.

"Formerly, real cartridges gave a truly martial aspect to the dress in which a straight sword worn diagonally across the front and another just as sharp suspended from the side were almost the only visible weapons until the automatic revolver came into fashion.

"But comparative wealth and peace overtook the Georgians and the other town dwellers who wore the striking dress and gradually these cartridges were changed for decorative imitations. Some of them were made of ebony at one end and ivory at the other.

"Thus the Caucasian Beau Brummel could vary the color scheme by reversing the decorations so that a white costume would be trimmed in black from cartridge case to dagger and a dark tcherkeska could be embellished by ivory cartridges and ivory handled daggers hanging from a shining silver belt.

"Modernity has gone ever further. One of these cartridge cases is now sometimes used for a fountain pen and the ultra fastidious dandy sometimes has hollow decorations in whose solid gold shell is concealed rich perfume for the moustache.

"The North Caucasus is not distinguished solely by legendary lore and fancy dress manhood. The broad fields which sweep gently up toward the slopes produce some of Russia's most abundant grain crops and form an important field for the sale and use of modern agricultural machinery.

"A little deeper, among the foothills, hundreds of thousands of sheep roam the slopes, climbing toward the eternal snowfields and 125 mile glacier in summer, returning to the valleys of the Kuban and the Terek when the cold of winter sweeps through the few passes that pierce the long mountain barrier.

"Sheltered among the hills and offering wonderful mountain views of the main ridge of the Caucasus, which reaches a height three times that of Mount Washington, lie the North Caucasus mineral baths at

ST. VALENTINE.
He was the saint of old and young.
The patron of the kindly tongue.
The father with the twinkling eye
Who smiled on all who traveled by,
And, spurning gold and scornful fame,
He kept the fires of love aflame.

He taught to all the world the worth
Of peace around the blazing hearth,
And bade men love the tender things,
The song the bubbling kettle sings,
And placed all else on earth above,
The happiness of those we love.

He had the strength to put aside
The pomp and arrogance of pride,
And preach of happy hearts that find
Their lasting joy in being kind.
He bade us through the years to come,
Never to let love's lips grow dumb.

And so today, both young and old
Bring gifts to those whose love they hold.
And by the tokens, sweet and true,
The pledges of their faith renew.
Bright eyes with joyous radiance shine
As symbols of St. Valentine.

Pyatigorsk and Kislovodsk, whose popularity among the wealthy was second only to that of the winter resorts of the Crimea.

"At Kislovodsk is the famous 'Narzan' spring, with a flow of a half a million gallons a day, in whose effervescent waters bathing was cheap although the water when bottled commanded a high price in European cities and even in Persia and Siberia. The Circassians called this sparkling carbonic water 'the drink of heroes.'

"North Caucasus, or Cis-Caucasia, abounds in oil, although it is only at Mafkop and Grozny that any flow is found to compare with the world famed petroleum fields at Baku. When the revolution unseated the English managers at Grozny, thousands of barrels of oil were flooding the countryside while the workmen sought to imprison their managers as a guarantee that their self-raised wages would be forthcoming.

"So much has been written about Georgia, Armenia and the Azerbaijan republic south of the mountain frontier that few realize that just north of the historic rock wall between Europe and Asia there lies one of the richest regions in the world."

THE BOOZE JOKE.

"What," asks a reader, "has become of the Leap Year joke?"

We don't know. We have searched the funny columns up and down, but all in vain. The Leap Year joke appears to have been drowned in a deluge of booze humor. It's so easy to make a booze joke. All you have to do is draw a picture of a hundred thirty citizens raiding a physician's office, or write a joke of this variety:

"They say he married an heiress."
"Yes, they say she has a barrel."
"What? A barrel of money?"
"No, whiskey."

At which all the rum hounds howl for joy, and the brewery ring puts you on the payroll of propaganda manufacturers.

And yet there are so-called funny persons that actually pay good money for brilliant effusions of this sort. The Leap Year joke was pretty bad, but it was a gem of wit beside these modern Oldmams. For goodness sake, let's get back to our old friends.

Superstitions of the Air
By FREDERIC J. HASKIN, Director
Janesville Daily Gazette Information Bureau,
Washington, D. C.

New York, Feb. 14.—Probably the most superstitious people in the world are aviators. They believe in luck, and, unquestionably in luck, one of the worst calamities in an aviator's life is the loss of his lucky charm or mascot, for such an event is regarded as a grim foreshadowing of accident or serious disaster. There may be some aviators who do not believe this, but the vast majority do.

The other day a group of late war aviators was lunching at the Aero Club of America here when the conversation turned to this peculiar primitive trait in those who handle this, the most spectacular device in the present generation.

"Yes, there was Bob," remarked one, pausing reminiscently in the middle of his soup course, "who always insisted he could never fly with any success unless his favorite corn-cob pipe accompanied him. His last act before going up was to smoke this pipe and place it reverently in his case in his pocket. Then, one morning, some of the boys decided to have a little fun by hiding the pipe, and he could never fly again."

There was a brief silence after this, and then another ex-war aviator noticed the other's silence and said: "Usually, graveyards are scrupulously shunned by aviators, but Bill felt that there were plenty of them, and used to toss them cordial greetings from the air. Maybe he felt toward graveyards as most people feel toward churches. In the long as you can see it you are all right. Anyway, Bill always planned his course in the air so as to pass as many graveyards as possible. He was never so lucky as to find one, but he was sure that nothing could happen to him as long as he could see a cemetery once in a while."

Spring was a member of the famous Lafayette Escadrille, and for more than two years most of his time was spent flying over Boche lines in an effort to incite German flyers to combat. During this time the captain appeared to possess a peculiar life and, indeed, quite literally his life was charmed for he carried constantly with him an Italian five lire piece and wore a band guard adorned by a fortune teller to protect him.

Last summer, when the capital Spring took part in the aerial derby between New York and Toronto, he still had the luckpiece with him. At least, he had it when he started out, but just outside of Bellevue, N. Y., the weather became so bad that the captain was forced to land in a cornfield, where he succumbed after losing a lot of the jumper's corn and damaging his machine. When he crawled out, he immediately felt for his lucky coin, and found it gone. In the pocket where it had been there was only a hole. The farmer was pleased about the damage to his corn and had the machine repaired. The captain was charged all the neighboring farmers 25 cents apiece to look at it. But the aviator felt sure that his Italian coin was in some hole in the Italian coin and was inconsolable.

Carries Silver Medal
In the same race there was another aviator distinguished for his service in the war, who carried with him as a lucky charm a little silver medal of St. Anthony, which was presented to him by a young woman just before the race started. When this flyer attempted to land at Albany a crowd inconveniently gathered about the machine and he was compelled to plunge down a 25 foot embankment to keep from hitting a part of it. The crowd, who had been told by aviator officials and first aid contingent who hurried down the embankment to his side confidently expected to find him dead.

"But," says this young hero in describing his adventure, "I know that little silver medal of St. Anthony saved my life. I was sure it was going to be killed, but felt it was better to die myself and wreck my machine than to kill half a dozen people in that crowd. If I had kept on there would have been several killed and a lot more injured. This would not have been economy. I remember how they all looked at me when they saw my head and then plunged down the ground. The engine of the machine was thrown out."

After this, it became the custom for aviators to take their mascots with them. It is really the luck token which is held to wield the strongest influence over the course of the machine. Thus, one of the most famous aviators carries two dogs and a family clock with him, and wears his fiancée's stocking wrapped around his ear as a luck token. Another aviator carries a small clock and a family clock with him, and wears his fiancée's stocking wrapped around his ear as a luck token. Another aviator carries a small clock and a family clock with him, and wears his fiancée's stocking wrapped around his ear as a luck token.

While animal mascots are now recognized as almost essential to the sport of flying, and few aviators go without them, it is really the luck token which is held to wield the strongest influence over the course of the machine. Thus, one of the most famous aviators carries two dogs and a family clock with him, and wears his fiancée's stocking wrapped around his ear as a luck token. FRANCES NORDSTROM
"The first thing to do if you want to be a successful playwright," Frances Nordstrom advises young women, "is to marry a business man. He will do the thinking for you. He will be your business manager, and now having plays produced is no trouble at all for her. She simply dashes them off and friend husband does the rest, so that her artistic temperament isn't bothered by any sordid details. I have never even had to bother to write them, she says. She just puts her pencil on the paper and it seems to write all by itself. A most surprising and a pencil one thinks after seeing her last play, 'The Ruined Lady,' which is having such a successful run in New York."

One unique thing about this play is that it was written by a woman, sold through a woman agent, staged by a woman, and produced by a woman. This circumstance seems a good feminine argument, but Miss Nordstrom is not at all a feminist. She is a woman, and her sister, who is a feminist to be a feminist. She is a willowy, auburn-haired young woman with a quaint, unaffected smile. She finds it hard to talk about herself.

"There isn't anything to say about me," she said. "I haven't any talents or hobbies. I love to write. I love dogs, and I simply adore being alone. I never get tired of myself. I spend hours with my pen, and I still think I am entertaining. This sounds conceited, but it is true."

Frances Nordstrom comes from a Canadian family. Her mother has unusual business ability, one of her aunts is a well-known travel agent and explorer. Another lawyer, and her sister, who is a famous actress, who by the way is having a marked success in the London Hippodrome now in a sketch by Frances Nordstrom. She has a background of such brilliant women to live up to, an obliging business manager, husband, and a mother who is a most interesting and adding her share to the fame of the clever Nordstrom women.

HEAVY THOUGHTS BY A LIGHT THINKER.

A man becomes a cynic when his egotism is not strong enough to withstand the shock of two flittings. The cynic's idea of marriage is a disease caused by love and cured by divorce. He is always right.

Men admire clever women—but they won't live with them. And they advise their friends against marrying them. Men who have never learned to say "no" had better go into the wilderness until the close of 1920. That has become of the old-fashioned man who used to say, "Will you honor me by becoming my wife?"

The modern youth, if he has more than one good habit, oftentimes says "Look me over, Gladys, and see how lucky you are." Conscience is wedded to selfishness, and no court can divorce them.—Irene A. D. Corbally.

Prohibition is getting a little more rigid right along as the centuries go by. The first prohibition measure in this country was adopted in 1820. It made it a misdemeanor to sell more than one gallon of whiskey to any one Indian in one day.

The New York judge who says that the value of a dollar is still one hundred cents has not been out shopping with his wife lately.

40 ATTEND SECOND HEALTH LECTURE

Forty members of the junior department of the "Y" heard the talk given by Frank S. Sherwood at the "Y" last night. He spoke on "Life's Beginnings," which was similar to the talk given Monday night to the boys of the Hi-Y club, but was modified to suit the juniors. Six fathers attended the meeting.

Mr. Sherwood, at the conclusion of his talk, recommended certain books, published by the state board of health for reading for parents of boys. Mr. Sherwood is working for the state board of health and was brought here by County Secretary J. K. Arnold. He spent most of the week talking in the country and in the small towns of the county. ## FISHER BUYS 30 HOLSTEIN CATTLE

John L. Fisher returned yesterday from Wisconsin, Ill. where he purchased a herd of 30 registered Holstein cattle from S. J. Craig, Whiteside county. With this addition, his herd now totals 35 head of purebred cattle. In speaking of his purchase today, he said:

"Among the cattle purchased was a Guernsey cow which has a record of 24,233 pounds of milk and 987 pounds of butter in 365 days; also a Holstein cow which has a record of 24,233 pounds of milk and 987 pounds of butter in 365 days. Twenty-three head of the cattle I bought are direct descendants of the best known cow in the world, the one known as the 'Big Red' cow. She has a 7-day record of 27 pounds of butter made from 31.5 pounds of milk. In the herd there are 12 cows with official records. Besides having fine records, the cows are beautiful animals and have won many prizes."

PROMINENT EDGERTON WOMAN SUCCEUMS

(By Gazette Correspondent.)
Edgerton, Feb. 14.—Mrs. Robert Atlessey passed away yesterday at the age of nearly 80 years. In 1870 she married Robert Atlessey, who was one of the oldest settlers of Edgerton. They lived a happy and pleasant life until he passed away about 10 years ago. Mrs. Atlessey has always been an active woman, throughout her life, being affiliated with church and lodge work. She usually was present at most of the social events until her age prevented her active participation.

Mrs. Atlessey was the mother of Benjamin C. Dexter, L. and George H. Willson. The grandchildren living are Mrs. A. T. Shearer, Edgerton; Mrs. H. A. Keenan, Stoughton; and Robert Willson, Edgerton. Mrs. Atlessey has spent her last years with her son, B. C. Willson, where she had every comfort and care. For many years she has had acute attacks of chronic troubles which had always been relieved until her last sickness when every effort was made to bring her back to life. The funeral will be at the home of B. C. Willson, at 2 o'clock Monday.

J. B. Earle left Friday evening for Minneapolis. Miss Helen Smith gave a dancing party to a small circle of friends last evening.

Miss Louise Riffenberg was a passenger to Madison this morning. Dr. A. T. Shearer is confined to his home by a bad cold.

Two small sons of Anton Oleson are quite ill at their farm home. Mrs. J. B. Earle, who has been critically ill for some time, is on the road to recovery.

YAHN PURCHASES TIRE REPAIR SHOP

After several years of service in the advertising department of the Gazette George W. Yahn, Jr., leaves Monday to enter business on his own account. Last week ago he purchased from the Smith Bros. Tire company, located at 15 North Franklin street, the stock, equipment, and all of their tire repairing business and will conduct it in the future as the Yahn Tire Service station in the same location.

The Gates Half-Sole tires will be specialized by Mr. Yahn the same as by his predecessors. The process or product consists of half selling an old tread or casing and guaranteeing it to give half service for 6,000 miles; 500 tires were successfully treated to half sales last season so that the Gates has become a fixed item of economy with automobilists. Mr. Yahn has also secured the exclusive agency for Kelly-Springfield tires and tubes, both fabric and cord, and has acquired a complete stock of all sizes. He has also arranged to make adjustments at his agency, a great accommodation to automobilists.

General tire and tube repairing will be featured, and tire accessories will be sold. An expert tire repair man versed in all branches of the work will care for this branch of the business and a particularly attractive feature will be a service car, which will be on call at all times for the accommodation of those with tire trouble no matter where the trouble may occur. Mr. Yahn intends to make it a place where real tire service will be given.

Nearly $60 has been raised by the Girls' Athletic association at high school by means of selling tickets for the picture "Daddy Long Legs" which will be shown at the Apollo theater at the close of school Monday afternoon. This is the first benefit which the G. A. A. has sponsored. Manager James Zanias has donated the use of theater.

SEVEN DOWNTOWN OFFICES BURGLARIZED

None of the safes in these offices was opened, and nothing was found to be missing there today.

Work is Ours.
Although the John E. Kennedy office was not entered marks on the door showed where attempts had been made to force the lock. This was the only office in the Sutherland block where any evident effort had been made to enter.

Crudeless of the jobs leads Chief Morrissey to the belief that it was the work of amateurs. Had they been professionals, more safes would have been opened, and the loot would have amounted to the thousands.

News Notes From Movieland

BY DAISY DEAN

Madge Kennedy has a particularly suitable part in her newest picture, "Two Cents Worth of Happiness," she plays the part of "Hazel," a little girl with stage ambitions. Miss Kennedy is always sure to be delightfully refreshing in her character portrayals and she is so real that she makes you feel she is a "regular girl" and you would like to know her and play around with her or help her out of her usual predicaments.

In the picture Hazel has to cook beans over the gas jet in her hall bedroom and Miss Kennedy decided to try the beans when she was making the scene and the whistle blew caught her in the act and hence the picture. Director Harry Beaumont may look as if he is panning the beans but he isn't. He tried them and said he thought they were pretty good for an amateur cook.

The camera man said he was sorry but he would not even eat a bean cooked by the famous Miss Kennedy because he was in the army and now cannot look a bean in the face.

TO EUROPE

In May some boat will carry a number of interesting passengers across the big pond. John Emerson, Anita Loos, Marjorie Rambeau and Madge Kennedy and her director, Harry Beaumont.

Hugh Dillman are among the number who have planned to take the trip. The motion picture excursion is going to stop in London and have several interesting offers that have been waited in their direction. The party, planning this little voyage grows in fact so many people have dignified their desire to join that it may become necessary to charter a special boat. Chartering a special boat sounds grand, doesn't it, even for lavish and extravagant film land.

SHEDD VAMP AGAIN

Louise Glaum is again going to become a vampire of the screen. Her next vehicle is to be Sardou's famous "Theodora" and it is planned to take six months in the making of it.

Resume of Moving Picture Programs of Last Week

(By MRS. ABBIE HELMS)
Sports of various kinds are featured on the screen at this time. They range from side contests and ice boat races in the north to aviation and on the flying fields of the south. Pleas for help in the Near East are still being shown in the theaters and the little vaudeville act, Violet Street, raised nearly $200 during her engagement last week at the Apollo, by her personal efforts.

"The Thunderbolt" which was the main picture at the Apollo during this past week was not so extreme as people expected. While it was a bit startling, and those who were looking for suggestive things might find them, yet the story was told in a nice way that would offend no one, and the acting was far ahead of the commonplace. The theme began back in a feud in the Kentucky mountains where the father of the hero was killed, and he vows revenge in the melodramatic way. Later when he marries a beautiful girl at the instigation of a villain, the villain, MacDonald, and finds her a daughter of his father's slayer, he leaves her because he says the hated race must die with her. To save her, he leaves soon enough, and during his year's absence abroad a son is born to him. When he comes back and finds her captured by another man, he thinks the boy is not his own, just as she is getting a divorce, she finds that his money is gone and like a true woman she returns to comfort him in his trouble.

The Sunday picture at the Majestic, "The Later Case," which was a mystery story concerning the death of an old woman, Bryant Washburn, as the lawyer, had the unique character of being the villain who saved the girl he was infatuated with, had an altercation with the old woman and she was killed. Bryant is so mild and well-mannered that he did not make a successful villain, but the story involved two young men who were engaged on the girls the same evening so it was an unexpected and thrilling ending to the tale, which was cleverly arranged.

The vigorous and manly personality of William Farnum had full play in a story, "Wolves of the Night," shown at the Beverly last part of the week. He was supposed to be an unsuccessful rancher who was put out of the way by a gang who wanted his copper mine. He was sent to Chile on some engineering work. In an accident in the mine he was supposed to have been killed, and word sent to his wife that he was dead. Later after three years wandering about with a clouded mind, he comes to himself and returning home finds his wife married to one of the men who had cheated him. Of course it ends well but gives Farnum time for some simple bits of tragedy and pathos.

CHIN-CHIN AN ELABORATELY STAGED MUSICAL FANTASY

Playgoers enjoyed the big musical comedy "Chin-Chin" as staged at Myers Theatre last night. This big success abounded in catchy numbers with delightful melody and lyrics. Norman Hackett will appear in his latest starring vehicle, "Tea For Three," no small degree of interest will be aroused. During the long run of "Tea For Three" in New York and Chicago, thousands of persons from every state witnessed and enjoyed this delightful comedy. Now that the Selwyns, producers, are sending Mr. Hackett and an excellent company here in the sparkling Roi Cooper Megrue comedy, those who have only heard of its delights will have an opportunity to judge it on its own merits.

"Chin-Chin" was a modern version of the famous old Arabian Nights tale of "Aladdin, or the Wonderful Lamp." The authors have taken all kinds of liberties with the original story, but upon its foundation they have built an up-to-date extravaganza with bewilderingly amusing adjuncts. There is practically no plot to the variegated performance. In the first act we have Aladdin and Violet Egan, a charming young American girl in search of a magical lamp which has the power to grant any wish of the owner. They meet at the top shop of Abanazar, and the remaining acts and scenes are brought about by the magical properties of the lamp found in the old shop of Widow Twankey. In succession follow such characters as Fan Tan the diminutive maid, the Goddess of the Light, Chin Hop, Hi, Chin Hop Lo, Padrowald, the Yonkariquist, the Gendarmes, the Ring Master, the Clown Saxophone Band, Mike Phillofski, Teddy Bears, and Pisco the Horse.

It afforded a capital evening's entertainment of good, clean fun.

TO APOLLO PATRONS

It is with great pleasure that I announce the coming, within a few days, to this theatre, of that funny little Jew, Milt Schuster.

Milt and his company this time will appear in an entirely new bill and, as the old saying goes, "are better than ever." Milt has appeared at the Apollo a number of times and always draws a crowd. His particular brand of humor always makes a hit. So I am advising you this early of his coming that you may plan in advance to attend. Don't let anything prevent your attending this extremely funny attraction.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Letters May be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a married woman thirty-six years old. My husband is 35 years old, English, and I am an American. I have eight children, six boys and two girls, five children going to school.

My husband is a very kind man. For over two years he has not spoken one kind word to the children or me. He calls us the vilest names which you would not put in print. He says that the children are not his and talks to other men as though I were not a good woman.

He has beaten me until I could not get out for three days. Twice he left me with nothing for us to live on except cornmeal and what eggs we had. I have no friends. As soon as he finds out I have them he will start to talk about them and you know some women do not like to have any friends.

I have no clothes and my children need clothes, too. He only lets me have $70 per month and I have to live on that. He is making big money and could let me have enough to live on. Then he sends because he does have better things to eat. I buy everything we have to eat or wear on this $70 a month.

I can never get money to pay a lawyer. They want pay for their work. My father, mother, five sisters and one brother all live in the east and so there is no one to help me.

He has no reason to treat me as he does. I have always been true to him, doing all my household work and washing. When one keeps five boys in school with pants and stockings with no holes, there is a day's work. I love my children because they are the same as I am, and that is why he is bad to me.

LOVELY MOTHER.

You have no reason to treat me as he does. I have always been true to him, doing all my household work and washing. When one keeps five boys in school with pants and stockings with no holes, there is a day's work. I love my children because they are the same as I am, and that is why he is bad to me.

you say, there is no question about your being able to get a divorce. Since your husband is making "big money," he will have to pay you alimony for the care of the children.

Go to a good lawyer and state your case. Your husband will have to pay your lawyer and court costs and the lawyer will not be afraid to take your case. Since your husband says he hates Americans and is cruel to you because you are an American, he will not get much sympathy or consideration when his attitude becomes known.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young man 21 years of age and deeply in love with a young lady about about the same age. I corresponded with her for nearly three years.

While I was in service she did not forget me. I received a letter once a week from her and once in a while she would send me a package of different things.

She has treated me well and seemed to care a great deal for me before I joined the navy, but now that I am back she doesn't seem to care for me as she did. I have asked her to go out with me to certain respectable places, but she always refused, stating she had some other engagements.

Do you think she really cares for me?

I have gone out with several other young ladies, but it seems that none can take her place, for I love her with all my heart and soul. Please advise me what to do.

UNHAPPY SAILOR.

It looks as if the girl had learned to care for someone else. You are not the only boy who lost his sweetheart while in service, and you will have to bear your disappointment cheerfully, just as all are doing. At the age of 21 you are not hopelessly hurt and one of these days you will find yourself even more interested in some other girl.

February Is the Month to Stock Up On New Blouses for Spring Wear

Since this is always the fashionable thing for spring wear, it means that the separate blouse is an important item in the spring wardrobe. February is the month the new blouses make their official appearance in light blouses during this month.

The blouse at the left will probably be the most popular model for spring wear. It is the hip-length style and looks particularly smart under the suit, for it forms a vestee effect. This blouse is an exquisite creation fashioned of gold-colored crepe de chine and georgette. The georgette forms the sleeves and underblouse, while the overblouse is made of the crepe de chine. A conventional embroidered design borders the neck and sleeves and a large flower design done in pastel shades of blue and pink trims the front of the blouse. The blouse is also made in pale blue and all white.

The flared blouse in the center will be just as good next August as it is now. It is fashioned of peach-colored georgette with a white tucked vest trimmed with tiny black buttons. Narrow accordion pleated frills outline the neck and sleeves. The flared blouse is also made in pale blue and all white.

The finest of French voile makes the simple little blouse at the right. It is trimmed with many pin tucks and a youthful little round collar which is tucked and edged with the finest lace in a daisy design. Tucks and lace also trim the unusual cuffs on the sleeves. This blouse is one of those popular models which fasten on the shoulder. It is practical for general wear and is dainty enough to grace an informal afternoon tea or bridge party.

A SLAP.
Billy—Mother, are you the nearest relative I've got?
Mother—Yes, dear, and your father is the closest relative you've got!

HUSBAND OF 15 SEPARATED

London, Eng.—The Consett (Durham) Bench has granted a marriage against her husband, Reginald Geach, who is only 15 years old, because he deserted her last August. The parties married at Lancaster Registry Office in April, and a baby was born in June.

The magistrate ordered Geach to pay 15s. weekly to his wife.

BISHOP ON SEX FREEDOM

London, Eng.—The bishop of London has denounced the "sex freedom" relations between the sexes as denouncing by the Bishop of Coventry. There is today, he said, "an awful and unwholesome increase in license and immorality only at the beginning of the misery."

It was either the result of greater freedom between the sexes during the war or an evil exorcism which had followed on the wider occupation of women.

FOOD FOR WEEK (MENDED) FEMALES

Today, dear children, let us study the latest bulletin from the Gouger Sisters' plant, where very bad whisky is converted by the magic of a dash of "herbs and roots, namely vegetable 'strengthener' and panacea for the 'delicately organized sex'—young women's lives when the should ask her mother, the Gouger Sisters assure the world, "her sister or her aunt, or perhaps an old friend, what she should do for that pain—dizziness or headache" feeling which distresses most women in maidenhood, womanhood, motherhood and grand-motherhood. What have the Gouger Sisters against grandmotherhood, I wonder? Maybe they are a little decency to feel that, in rare cases, women begin to acquire a grain of sense by the time old age is upon them.

"Who does not know," continues this versatile pair of sisters, to the accompaniment of treasured soft music and bold and typical, "the does not know women and young girls" beautiful cloak models attention, please—'young girls' who are content with the dark side—who have frequent fits of melancholia without any apparent cause."

Great Peter! There has been some horrible mistake in creation. Who does not know males who answer that very description—coarsely or fastidiously brutal who take their booze out of a frank booze bottle—when they can get it?

"The intelligent physician"—this is a serious and interesting! What CAN the Gouger Sisters have to say of the intelligent physician to the intelligent sex, that it is some arrangement of the complicated and delicate feminine organs."

For a long time have been worried about my mental condition. Why, I am in a bad way—I can no more know, by intuition, as an intelligent physician, some derangement of complicated or delicate organs, from such vague indeterminate symptoms, than can a swimmer know the bottom of the sea by the feel of the water. I must write to the Gouger Sisters' head stenographer and ask her to tell me some more of the symptoms. Start me down the Set 13. I am young yet. Wait till my whiskers get down to my hips—and the stars are in just the right

ANSWER—Boric acid ..... 2 drams
Glycerin ..... 2 ounces
Proseach ..... 2 drams
Water ..... 1 pint
Boil all together, constantly stirring, until dissolved. Apply two or three times a day after washing and drying skin. Is quite dry, and allow to dry on. This tends to whiten the skin if it is red. The lotion is sometimes disagreeable to the soreness after shaving.

What are the symptoms of hardening of the arteries? Do you ache all the time and are your muscles and joints sore?
ANSWER—Send S. A. E. for monograph on cardio-vascular disease. There are no characteristic symptoms and if there were I certainly would not suggest them to you. Symptoms are—shortness of breath, more than they can chew—after agonies from diseases they haven't got.

Dry Chapped Skin.
Have noticed in your column a formula for dry chapped skin. Will you please print the formula again? (Mrs. M. J. C.)

WITH THE WOMEN OF TODAY

Is it possible for a man to marry and raise a family on $150 or less a month? This question was recently decided by more than 2,400 men and women in Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky and of all these it was decided that Mrs. J. J. Schoenberger of Cincinnati was entitled to a $50 prize for her solution of the big problem of the day.

Here is Mrs. Schoenberger's plan which is in practice in her home: "Marry on $150 a month! We have been raising three boys, one boy and the other 2 years old, buying a house and saving a little from $150 a month. We have been living for the past six months on $150 a month."

"We believe our business-like system enables us to manage as we do. Husband takes his allowance, puts $3.50 a week into savings. Then I decide what I need for the weekly household expenses, about $11.00. The balance goes into a joint checking account, from which current bills are paid."

"All this banking seems too much for the amounts involved, but each of us know that as long as we have the cash in hand we spend, so we do."

glory which I call Independence! Let me come to you quickly!"

I sealed the letter, addressed and stamped it, and mailed it. My heart was lightened, my soul poured out.

Then I tore the thing in two—in four—scattered the bits in the waste basket.

CHAPTER VIII.

A Touch of the Hated Degree. It was Bucky that caught the convict. The two men met at the top of a mountain pass. Blackwell, headed south, was slipping down toward Stone's horse when they came face to face. Before the bad man had his revolver out, he found himself looking down the barrel of the ranger's leveled rifle.

"I wouldn't," Bucky murmured solemnly. "What you want me for?" Blackwell demanded suddenly. "For the W. & S. robbery." "I'm not the man you want. My name's Johnson."

"I'll put up with you till I find the man I want, Mr. Johnson," Bucky told him cheerfully. "Climb down from that horse. No, I couldn't try that. Keep your hands up."

Bucky took his prisoner straight to the ranger's office and telephoned to Cullison.

The lieutenant did not know anything about book psychology, but he had observed that hunger and weariness try out the stuff of them many men. Under the sign of them many men, will snap that would have held fast if sustained by a good dinner and a sound night's sleep. This is why so many "bad men" are gun fighters with a reputation for gameness, with on occasion like whipped curs.

In the old days this came to nearly every terror of the border. Some day when he had a jumping toothache, or when his nerves were frayed from a debauch, a silent stranger walked into his presence, looked long and steadily into his eyes and ended for ever his reign of lawlessness. Sometimes the lawman was a plumed officer, sometimes he subsided into inconspicuous peace officer.

"The ranger had a sneaky instinct that this fellow's degred resistance. Therefore he sent for Cullison, the man whom the convict most feared. The very look of the gentleman, with that grim, hard, capable aspect, shook Blackwell's nerve."

"So you've got him, Bucky?" "Bucky looked the man over as he sat hunched beside the table and read in his face both terror and a sly, dogged cunning. Once before the fellow had been through the same sort of degree. Something of the sort he fearfully expected now. Villainy is usually not consistent. This fellow, instead, he shrank like a schoolgirl from the thought of physical pain."

"Stand up," ordered Cullison, quietly. Blackwell got to his feet at once. "Don't hump," he whined.

"Bucky knew the man awaited under the punishment his imagination called up, too well to end the suspense by making real the vision. For the worst would be past, since the actual is never equal to what is expected."

"Well?" Luck watched him with the look of tempered steel in his hard eyes.

"I—Mr. Cullison, I want to explain. Every man is liable to make a mistake—go off his head, I didn't do right. That's a fact. I can explain all that, but I'm sick—awful sick."

Cullison laughed harshly. "You'll be sicker soon."

"You promised you wouldn't do anything if we were honest. You're the man. Plucked up courage to remind him."

"Mr. Cullison, please—I admit I made a mistake. I didn't ought to have gone in with Case Kendrick. He wanted me to kill you, but I wouldn't."

Bucky had let Cullison take the center of the stage. He had observed a growing distress mount and ride her house—to see her father on business. She was at the door.

"Ah—Miss Blank, I believe," said he, "your father is in."

"No, sir," she replied, "father is not at present. Do you wish to see him personally?"

"Yes," the bluff response of the visitor, who felt that his former sweetheart was yielding—"I wanted to see him on very particular business, and he turned away haughtily."

"I beg your pardon," she called after him as he reached the last step, "but who shall I say called?"

"Yes," proudly announced the ex-captain who is manager of the new $10,000,000 hotel, "all our employees are former soldiers and every one of them. The desk clerk is an old top kicker, the floor clerks have all been non-coms in charge of quarters, the chef was a mass general, the waiters were all permanent J. P.'s, the house doctor was a base hospital surgeon, the house detective was an intelligence policeman, the bellhops were dogrobbers."

"And have you any former M. P.'s?" he asked.

"Yes," he replied, "when there's a good stiff wind blowing we use them as outside window washers on the eighteenth floor."

the victim. Now he stepped in to see the man with an alternative at which Blackwell might be expected not to snatch eagerly perhaps, but at least be driven toward.

"The man is my prisoner, Mr. Cullison. From what I can make out you ought to strip his hide off and hang it out to dry. But I've got first choice. If he comes through with the truth about the W. & S. robbery I've got to protect him."

Luck understood the danger. They were both working toward the same end. The immediate punishment of this criminal was not the important issue. It was the better man to yield to Bucky too easily. He fought the point out with him at length, and finally yielded reluctantly, in such a way as to acquiesce rather than relieve the anxiety of the convict.

"All right. You take him first," he finally conceded harshly. Bucky kept up the comedy. "I'll take him. Mr. Cullison. But if he tells me the truth—and if I find out it's the truth—there'll be nothing doing for you."

Metaphorically Blackwell licked the hand of his protector. "I am so do what's right, Captain. O'Connor. Whatever's right. You ask me any questions."

"I want to know all about the W. & S. robbery, everything, from start to finish."

Honest, I wish I could tell you. But I don't know a thing about it. Cross my heart, I don't."

"No use, Blackwell. If I'm going to stand by you against Mr. Cullison, you'll have to tell the truth. Why, man, I've even got the mask you wore and the cloth you cut it from."

"I reckon it must be some one else, major. Wish I could help you, but I can't."

Bucky rose. "All right. If you can't help me, I can't help you. Mr. Cullison, I reckon I'll run out and have some supper. Do you mind staying here with this man till I get back?"

"No. That's all right. Bucky. Don't hurry. I'll keep him entertained."

Perhaps it was not by chance that his eye wandered to a blacksnake whip hanging on the wall. O'Connor countered to the door. The frightened gaze of the prisoner clung to him as if for safety.

"Major—Colonel—you ain't a-going," he pleaded.

"Only for an hour or two. I'll be back. I wouldn't think of staying good-bye—not till we reach Yuma."

With that the door closed behind him. Blackwell cried out, hurriedly, eagerly: "Mister O'Connor?—I'll tell you everything—every last thing. Mr. Cullison—he's aiming to kill me soon as you've gone."

"I've got no time to fool away. Blackwell, I'm hungry. If you mean business get to it. But remember that whatever you say will be used against you."

"I'll tell you any dog-goned thing you want to know. You've got me beat. I'm plumb wore out—sick. A man can't stand everything."

"Sit down. There's a good dinner waiting for you at Cullison's when you get through."

His story was that he had found on the street a letter that had inadvertently been dropped. It was to Jordan of the Cattlemen's National bank, and it notified him that $20,000 was to be shipped to him by the W. & S. Express company on the night of the robbery. Blackwell received to have a try for it. He hung around the office until the manager and the guard arrived from the train, made his raid upon them, took the money, and threw away his mask.

He dived with the satchel into the nearest alley, and came face to face with the stranger whom he later learned to be Kendrick.

Blackwell got to his feet at once. "Don't hump," he whined.

"Bucky knew the man awaited under the punishment his imagination called up, too well to end the suspense by making real the vision. For the worst would be past, since the actual is never equal to what is expected."

Hazelton's Stories by Famous Duck Hunters of America

COMPILED BY W. C. HAZELTON.

DUCK SHOOTING

W. C. Hazelton's duck shooting story appearing in the Gazette today tells of a form of duck shooting known as "timber" which is known by Wisconsin hunters as there is little or no shooting of this kind in the state of Illinois. "Timber" is described by Mr. Hazelton in response to many inquiries he has had about such hunting.

TIMBER SHOOTING ON THE ILLINOIS RIVER

By William C. Hazelton

Timber mallard shooting is one of the best of sports. The Illinois river has always been noted for its shooting in the timber on the west side of the river. It is there that the ducks are called. If there is any timber shooting in Wisconsin. At least I never heard of any one going to the Illinois river in response to many inquiries he has had about such hunting.

All the shoot water ducks frequent the timber to some extent, but the mallard is generally the most numerous. Mallards may be found sitting in large bodies, both by night and day, sometimes in the depth of the woods, particularly amongst the maple and willow timber, where they feed on the larvae, burrs, and vegetable matter found there floating on the surface of the water. On being routed, instead of settling in some other place, and then returning to the day, they will come back shortly, singly and in small parties, affording most excellent sport. This fact is unknown to many sportsmen, who think as I did in my earlier duck-shooting days, that the ducks cared but little more for one place than another, and when they did wish to come back could not, or at least would be unlikely to find the place again after once leaving.

The shooting I did last fall at the Duck Island preserve was in the timber, but not very heavy or tall timber. The ducks the timber is generally a growth on both immediate banks and generally extends in width from one hundred to three hundred feet. These trees are of great size and age and principally of oak. Further back the timber is generally much smaller and of a different kind of trees. Practically all the timber that is standing in the water in the fall at a normal stage of water are dead trees and sometimes considerable buck brush.

The height of this dead timber after you are back from the river a few hundred yards and you will find close to each other and one can navigate a boat well among them. One can walk some places and the water varies from two to six feet. What surprises me is that the trees do not rot away more. It appears that dead trees will stand upright in the water for years before succumbing. In fact I do not believe they rot at all from the action of the water. In the spring, of course, nearly the whole bottom are flooded, both corn fields and timber; but spring shooting is now tabooed.

On seeing ducks flying about, no matter in what direction, they should call loudly; and afterward from time to time he should call, whether ducks are in sight or not. Presently they may be in hearing when he is unable to see them, especially where the timber is heavy. In no place will the ducks answer the call as readily as here. It is not necessary to use a large number of decoys as the extent of open water is not large; therefore the decoys do not appear to such advantage as in an area of more open water.

Habits of Wild Fowl Vary

Habits of wild fowl vary greatly in different localities, as also do the different varieties themselves. Joseph Rugland, Oakland, Calif., recently told me he had never seen but two mallards among the thousands of ducks which frequent the Lake Merritt. These were both drakes and he coaxed one of them into his arms with the use of bread crumbs. These are strictly wild birds, but are protected by the authorities at Oakland. The ducks visit Lake Merritt in the suburbs of Oakland annually each season and some of them become very tame.

Though the black duck is not strictly speaking a western fowl, yet it is frequently found in company with mallards and is generally known by the name of the black mallard. This is a mistaken idea; it is a separate and distinct species. The black mallard is not a freak of nature like the albino, but is a distinct breed of ducks. They are to the eastern states what the mallard is to the west.

The deep water or diving ducks, such as canvasbacks, redheads, blue-bills, and others, do not frequent the timber.

Tens of thousands of mallards come down the Missouri river every fall, but there is no timber shooting to be had there, as the whole valley is largely sand, the only timber being small willows.

As an illustration of spring duck shooting in the timber, Fred Kimble, Peoria, Ill., during the spring of 1912, with a single barrel muzzle-loading gun, 9 range, in 17 days shooting killed 1,365 ducks. His smallest bag was 67 and his largest 25 ducks. His ammunition gave out almost every day. Not expecting to find such a large amount of game, and unable to obtain a permit of the state to hunt, he shot only a small part of the day.

Fred Kimble was America's greatest duck shot.

Cupid Wins Also as Success Comes to Woman Playwright

Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Agin.

CINCINNATI, O.—"We prayed together that success would come. Our marriage was kept secret because I wanted the name of Rachel Burton Butler, not that of Mrs. Boyd Agin, to become famous. Our honeymoon was spent in watchful waiting. Suddenly the sun shone and our reward had fallen."

This was the message sent to Cincinnati a few days ago by Boyd Agin, son of Dr. C. C. Agin, in announcing his marriage to Rachel Burton Butler, the young Cincinnati woman, who recently won the prize offered by Oliver Morosco by writing "Mamma's Affair," a comedy which is now running at the Little Theater in New York city. According to the word received by Dr. Agin, his son and Miss Butler were married at New York on Dec. 20, 1919. At that time Agin was appearing in a play which ran but five weeks and is now closed.

The romance began several years ago when Miss Butler, then in Cincinnati, was teaching dramatic art in a Cincinnati school. Young Agin, aspiring to become an actor, sought instruction from her. Her close ap-

Facts and Figures of "Flu"

Pungent and Positive Proof

The "Flu" Flurry began about October 1st. Its end was definitely in sight December 25th, 1918. Since the last named date the "Palmer School of Chiropractic" Davenport, Ia., compiled statistics of other Professions with that of Chiropractic which is as follows:

The Davenport Medical Death Ratio is 1 to 18 Cases or 5 5-9 Per Cent.

The American Osteopathic Association, Death Ratio is 1 to 127 Cases, or .0087, or 4-5 of 1 Per Cent.

The Palmer School of Chiropractic Death Ratio is 1 to 1,633 Cases, .000612, or 3-50 of 1 Per Cent.

The Iowa Chiropractic Death Ratio is 1 to 789 Cases, or .00 127, or 1-8 of 1 Per Cent.

The United States Chiropractic Death Ratio, Excluding Iowa, is 1 to 851 Cases, or .00117, or 1-9 of 1 Per Cent.

The Grand National Chiropractic Death Ratio is 1 to 886 Cases, or .00119, or 1-9 of 1 Per Cent.

The "Flu" is here again this year, (although not being as severe this year as last,) it is taking the lives of many of our citizens. If you believe in facts and figures why not try Chiropractic Adjustments before it is too late.

To date, the Chiropractors of Janesville have not lost one case of "FLU" or Pneumonia.

WHOS WHO in the Day News

LEARN ADMIRAL WILLIAM S. SIMS.

Secretary of the Navy Daniels told a senate committee that the chief duty he regarded his former action in recommending that Rear Admiral Sims be made a permanent admiral was a result of his war services. Daniels called Sims a "character" and characterized his efforts to in a general way the recommendations of the British army and navy in the war and to minimize the results of the United States' forces. "Injudicious" statements contained in a recent series of articles by Admiral Sims regarding the navy's part in the war, including a "gratuitous reflection on the whole Irish race," and the officer's action in having made public official instructions of a highly confidential nature, as having led to a change in his views regarding special promotion for Admiral Sims.

Some weeks ago Admiral Sims attacked Secretary Daniels for the latter's distribution of navy awards, and refused to accept his own medal. Admiral William Snowden Sims took command of the American naval forces in trans-Atlantic waters when the United States entered the war. America's share in the complicated and dangerous work of protecting the sea lanes on the other side, to keep the German fleet bottled up and of patrolling the coasts was carried out under his personal direction. He was the chief of Admiral Beatty at the surrender of the German war craft to the British in November, 1918.

Admiral Sims was born of American parents at Port Hope, Ontario, on Oct. 15, 1858. He was appointed to the Naval Academy from Philadelphia in 1876, and was graduated in June, 1880. He received the rank of lieutenant in 1893 and was promoted to the rank of captain by President Roosevelt in 1902. He had previously seen service in China and was naval attaché to the American embassy in Paris during the Spanish-American war.

He was on the staff of the naval war college from May 25, 1911, to June 1914, when he was given command of the torpedo boat flotilla of the Atlantic fleet.

President Wilson made him a rear admiral in August, 1916.

"GRANDMOTHER'S ILLNESS"—Milan, Italy.—A strange new illness has made its appearance in Italy. Italians call it "grandmother's illness," because it is characterized by invincible sleepiness. It recalls in its symptoms sleeping sickness, though apparently it is not the same.

ALMOST IMPOSSIBLE TO SUPPLY ENORMOUS DEMAND FOR TANLAC

Although Huge Laboratories Turn Out 36,000 Bottles Daily Thousands of Dealers Cannot Be Supplied.

40 CARLOADS SOLD IN JANUARY ALONE After Shipping 538,400 Bottles of Celebrated Medicine In One Month Factory Is Still 350,000 Behind With Orders.

Although the big Tanlac laboratories at Dayton, Ohio, and Walkerville, Canada, have been running at top speed for months, it has been a physical impossibility to supply the phenomenal and every increasing demand for this celebrated medicine.

During the first ten weeks of last year One Million Three Hundred and twenty-seven thousand bottles of Tanlac were sold; breaking all World's record for the sale of proprietary medicines up to that time. This record was pale to insignificance, however, as orders received during January alone of this year reached the astonishing total of One Million Two Hundred and Twenty Thousand bottles, showing an increase of approximately one hundred per cent. over the corresponding period of 1919.

To say that Tanlac now has the largest sale of any medicine of its kind in the world expresses it mildly. It does not begin to tell the story—for no other preparation has ever been approached the marvelous record that is now being made by Tanlac; and it is now conservatively estimated that the sales for the present year alone will amount to from seven to ten million bottles.

Of the orders received during January it was possible to ship only eight hundred and thirty thousand bottles, and thousands of dealers scattered throughout the United States and Canada have been unable to obtain the medicine for weeks.

"Phenomenal and Bewildering" is the way of the big drug journals of the country describes the marvelous demand for Tanlac. "We know that the day of miracles has passed, and we all know that there are no unsolvable mysteries in the drug business, but this Tanlac proposition smacks of both," writes another leading wholesale druggist, whose firm has sold over 34 carloads, or an average of nearly one car load per month since they began handling Tanlac a few years ago. Thousands of similar letters and telegrams have been received, but for lack of space they can only be referred to briefly.

Most proprietary medicines are sold by the dozen or by the gross; a few are bought by the trade in quantities of from ten to twenty gross; a very few are sold by the car load, and then only to the largest jobbers, covering extensive territories. The fact therefore that scores of jobbers in this country and Canada have a demand sufficient to justify them in ordering not one carload, but from two to three carloads of Tanlac at a time, makes Tanlac pre-eminent in the field of medicine all the more noteworthy. It is the biggest thing of its kind in the world and nothing like it has ever happened in the drug trade before. Think of one retail firm selling one-third of a million bottles of any one medicine right over the counter direct to consumers in only two years' time! It seems incredible, but such is the record made by the Owl Drug Company, through their retail stores on the Pacific Coast. Think of one retail firm in a single city of 200,000 population, selling approximately eighty-eight thousand bottles, an average of over two bottles for every family, in only four years' time! Such is the record of the Jacobs' Pharmacy Company, of Atlanta.

Think of one retail firm giving a single order for an entire car load, twenty-three thousand and forty bottles and agreeing to pay cash for the goods promptly on arrival. Such an order has been received from the Lewis K. Liggett Company, of Winnipeg, Canada.

Another big Canadian retail firm, C. Thompson, Limited, Toronto, Canada, recently gave their order for one hundred gross, amounting to $10,800.00.

Orders from retailers for from fifty to seventy-five gross are not uncommon, and practically all of the leading retail firms buy Tanlac in from ten to twenty-five gross lots to supply their normal demands.

When the magnificent new laboratories at Dayton, Ohio, and Walkerville, Canada, with a combined floor space of seventy thousand square feet and a combined capacity of thirty-six thousand bottles were completed, it was thought that the production would be sufficient to supply the demand for years to come. It is now apparent, however, that additional facilities must be provided if the supply is to keep pace with the demand. And this is true in spite of the fact that there are now on the market from fifty to one hundred preparations claiming similar therapeutic value.

Tanlac has now been on the market for five years. It has stood the acid test of time. It is known and honored in every city, town, village, and hamlet on the American Continent from Key West, Florida, to the Northern wilds of Canada, where even the Indians and Fur Traders have learned of its wonderful powers as a medicine.

The enormous and ever-increasing popularity is the one great outstanding proof of its wonderful merit. No medicine, no matter how extensively advertised, could sell and continue to sell and establish new world's records year after year, if it did not produce actual and positive results.

Tanlac is composed of the most beneficial roots and herbs known to the scientific world. The formula conforms with all National and State Pure Food and Health Laws of both the United States and Canada, and although Tanlac's claims for superiority are abundantly supported by leading authorities, it is the people themselves who have made Tanlac what it is. Millions upon millions have used it and have told other millions what it has done for them.

That is why Tanlac has become the real sensation of the drug trade all over America.

Tanlac is sold by all leading druggists.

Art and Economy in Home Building

No. 40—Plan submitted by the National Builders' Bureau, Spokane, Washington.

A Unique Two-Story Bungalow!

Yes, it has two stories, but note how cleverly the steep main roof and the two dormers create the bungalow effect!

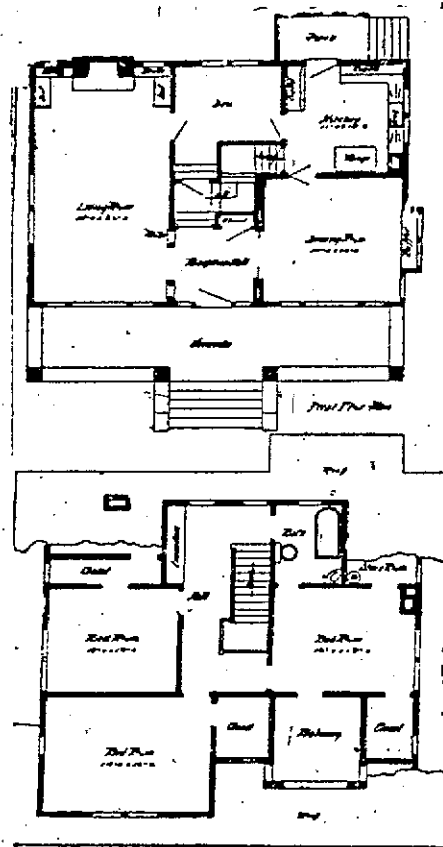

The ornamentation is highly effective, too, yet its cost is merely nominal.

The reception hall opens directly off the fine, roomy veranda, thus giving access immediately to the large living room with its fireplace and built-in bookcases and seats. The library adjoins the living room. There is an extra stairway from kitchen to second story. In basement are fuel room, boiler room, fruit room and laundry.

Building measures 33.6x36.6.

The merchants on this page will cooperate with you in every way possible—They will take care of your home problems—and are ready to serve you at all times.

Winter Building Safe and Practicable

The cost of delay is too high to justify postponing the erection of a new home, factory or extension just because of winter. It's unnecessary, too, to suffer this loss.

Through years of practice on thousands of buildings, resourceful contractors have developed simple methods that make winter building safe and practicable.

This means that if you are ready, you can order work started now. Or, it means that if you're only thinking of building you can go ahead now with your plans and have work started as soon as you say the word.

Why wait till next spring to build when buildings are so badly needed and when winter building is safe and practicable, gives you the profits or comforts of earlier use, keeps building money active and avoids the high cost of delay?

We'll be glad to send you or your contractor a copy of the booklet, "Concreting in Cold Weather," which shows the simple, inexpensive precautions needed to make winter building safe.

"Blue Monday" Can Be Banished Forever

No more wash-tubs—no more drudgery—no more backaches—let the Crystal Electric Washing machine carry the wash-day burden.

Your washing will always look clean and white—and it will be sanitariously cleaned—if the Crystal does the work. Delicate linens are washed without injury—just as satisfactorily as the coarsest fabrics with the Crystal. May we not demonstrate how easily, how economically the Crystal will do your washing in your own home?
